M.Tech Project: An efficient channel estimation scheme in MIMO TDD systems (May'19 - Present)

Guide: Prof. Kumar Appaiah, Electrical Engineering, IIT Bombay

Objective:

To design an efficient channel estimation scheme in Time Division Duplexing (TDD) with the help of feedback in MIMO Communication which will reduce the effect of pilot contamination on MIMO channel estimation.

Completed work:

- Implemented Multi Cell MMSE based MIMO precoding in multiple antenna cellular
- systems which used non-orthogonal pilots for channel estimation.
- Analyzed and implemented co-variance based channel estimation which uses Bayesian estimation in single cell multi antenna system and observed its performance based on rate vs number of antennas.
- Implemented Kalman estimation for multi antenna cellular system.
- Parameterized the feedback for postcoder in massive MIMO TDD systems with multi antenna users.
- Formulated a lower bound on the achievable rate for systems with perfect CSIT and partial CSIR.

Ongoing work:

Working on implementing a basic precoder which utilises the information obtained from Kalman estimate in coordinated MIMO systems.

- Studied the structure and working of MIMO systems and impact on BER on using Non-orthogonal pilot sequences for channel estimate.
- Simulated BER vs SNR for MIMO systems in Interference and Interference-free scenarios to study the impact of pilot contamination on the performance of the system.

Dear Sir,

Please verify the following points for my resume.

- The EE department holds admission process for PhD twice a year, and another admission process for M Tech once a year.
- Each admission session attracts a large number of applicants.
- Admissions are simultaneously held for different types of positions, some institute funded and others funded by funded projects.
- The selection is based on written test followed by interviews.
- The same candidate is interviewed by multiple panels to judge their merit for various positions.
- The logistics of handling such a complex interview process with more than 20 interview panels over 100 candidates in a restricted time-frame was always very challenging.
- An online platform for the purpose has been under development.
- I took a leading role in building this online system that made automatic coordination across interview committees possible through their interfaces.
- The online system allowed committees to decide in real-time using a cross platform web application about starting/combining interviews.
- I also built various other peripheral interfaces to collect data at different times from students and other sources to allow all major activities related to the admission to happen through the same system.
- The system was used successfully in the last 3 admission sessions.
